

LIFE IN THE SEA

WHALES

There are over 80 different species of whale. The biggest are the Blue Whales. These can be over 30 metres long and weigh 150 tonnes. A Blue Whale's heart is 2 metres tall and weighs half a tonne. Its tongue is huge: it is heavier than an elephant.

Whales are mammals, not fish. This means that they have warm blood, that they have to come to the surface to breathe and that they give milk to their young. Whales are very intelligent and enjoy playing. In fact, they spend three times longer playing than looking for food. They "sing" to each other underwater. These songs can last for several hours and are very loud. Whale songs can travel a long way, too - 850 kilometres.

DOLPHINS

There are over 28 different species of Dolphin. The best-known are the Common and the Bottle-nosed.

On average, dolphins are two metres long and can swim as fast as 45 kilometres per hour. They have a complex language. They can understand each other and some can even copy human speech. Dolphins live in groups or schools. If one member of the school becomes old or ill, the others look after it.

In the Vietnam War, America's navy used dolphins. They taught them to put mines on the sides of enemy ships.
